

Trip Advice Questions

Don't know where to start? Here's the beauty of our site: think big. Or think small. You can post on one thing—one tiny thing (like a fabulous restaurant)—or give us the full meal deal, from take-off to landing.

To get you thinking, here are SOME of the questions you can answer (but feel free to roam outside of the lines):

- Where'd you stay? Good deal or splurge? Multi-room option for families?
- Max number of people/beds for a larger family?
- Did it feel right for families? Or was it more couple-y?
- Where'd you eat? Any great meal deals?
- Did you shop in a grocery store/cook? Any country-specific tips?
- What'd you do? How'd you pass the time?
- Did you take any tours you'd recommend?
- What did the kids love doing?
- Did you have teens along that loved something specific?
- Did you have elementary kids along that loved something specific?
- What will live long in your collective family memory (good or bad)?
- How'd you get around?
- Would you do it the same way next time?
- Any mishaps you had to deal with?
- Anything you'd tell a friend NOT to do?
- Did you spend money on something you wished you hadn't?
- Did you splurge on something you were very glad you did?
- What did you skip/miss/not have time for that you'd be sure you did next time?
- How did this trip change your family? Bring them together? Or drive them apart...
- Contact names/organizations or web sites you'd recommend?
- Any language barriers? How'd you compensate? What would you recommend?
